

Law Bulletin Media Response to Coronavirus

Dear Valued Customer,

During the uncertainty caused by coronavirus (COVID-19), we wanted to take a moment to assure you of the strength of your partnership with Law Bulletin Media and thank you for your ongoing trust.

Our employees are all working towards the common goal of continuing to deliver the best legal news, resources and experiences for our clients.

We are actively monitoring the COVID-19 discussion to stay informed and ensure the actions we are taking are comprehensive and expedient. While there have been no reported cases of exposure to COVID-19 by Law Bulletin Media employees, the health and wellness of our employees, the people working on your behalf, is a top priority.

We have updated our Disaster Recovery Plan to incorporate a Pandemic Disaster Response. We are already prepared for business continuity. Most of our products are located on the Amazon Web Services (AWS) environment that provides geographic data redundancy. We also are preparing for our teams to work remotely if necessary, which will allow our employees to continue their work to support the services you use.

We also recognize our role in working with local officials and the courts to support efforts to contain the virus, to communicate updates and to continue business with minimal interruption.

We will remain in touch with any updates and we wish you good health and peace of mind.
